These exhibitions have been compiled for use in schools, libraries, communities, recreation centres, organizations, etc., and are designed with the point of view of the spectator in mind at all times. Most of the exhibitions are for the purpose of pure viewing. We hope that they will offer you enjoyment, but, at the same time, an insight into the wonderful two-dimension world of the visual arts.

Some of the exhibitions, as indicated, are directed towards those interested in the "how" of art and offer much information as to the mechanics of drawing, painting, etc.

We hope to widen our sources of exhibitions steadily thereby to make available to you as large a choice as possible from which to enjoy and to learn.

COST

These exhibitions are circulated and maintained by the Arts and Crafts Division, of the Recreation and Cultural Development Branch, and are, therefore, free from rental charge.

Most exhibitors, however, pay the return express charges, except in the case of a continuous itinerary, in which instance the community, or organization, must pay the express costs only to the next scheduled community.

BOOKING

Requests for exhibitions will be booked in order of application, with the reservation that we shall try to arrange the most efficient schedule and most economical transportation route for everyone concerned.

When ordering, please indicate choice of exhibition, listing, as well, alternative exhibitions in order of preference.

Please give first and second choice of dates.

Please state the length of time you will be exhibiting the requested exhibitions. This information is necessary in scheduling the next exhibition stop and dates.

EXHIBITING PERIOD

We suggest that all exhibitions should be displayed for as long as possible. We would recommend exhibiting each show for 3 - 5 days at least.

Exhibitions must be shipped within forty-eight hours of the closing date and the dismantling of the show.

Exhibitors will be advised where to ship exhibitions after their own showing.

INSURANCE AND DAMAGE

The Arts and Crafts Division, of the Recreation and Cultural Development Branch, insures the material included in its travelling shows.

Exhibitors are expected to co-operate with us by following directions for packing, handling and installing all material, and to give reports on the condition of material when received.

PUBLICITY

Exhibitors are requested to give credit to the Arts and Crafts Division, of the Recreation and Cultural Development Branch, Department of the Provincial Secretary, in all publicity releases, invitations, announcements, etc.

All exhibitions should be well advertised in advance.

Catalogues or posted material will accompany each exhibition, giving details of each artist and each painting or work of art.

Instructions will accompany each exhibition pertaining to the unpacking and repacking of such.

Information and suggestions as to the hanging or displaying of the works will accompany each exhibition.

From time to time the Arts and Crafts Division, of the Recreation and Cultural Development Branch, has available an exhibition, or exhibitions, which can be obtained upon request. These exhibitions are apart from those offered in the Travelling Exhibitions Program and are available to those communities, or groups, which find the need of a display of paintings, etc., for special occasions, openings, lectures, etc.

Should special exhibitions other than what we have available be required by organizations, or groups, and provided that they are requested far enough in advance of the date on which they are needed, the Arts and Crafts Division will do everything possible to obtain them for your use.

The Arts and Crafts Division greatly regrets that it will be impossible to provide a lecturer to accompany any of the travelling exhibitions during the 1962 - 1963 season.

The above fourteen works in this exhibition are the first half of a group of thirty-two paintings. Alberta Amateur Art Clubs, under the supervision of Mr. H. Wohlfarth, Department of Extension, University of Alberta, have contributed works from various centres.

The works exhibited in the two shows cover a variety of subject matter, with good attempts at the classic figure. In this phase of visual representation the figure retains a realistic form, revealing a good sensitivity of observation and interpretation, without the complexities of a thorough knowledge of anatomy.

Color, rendering and texture vary considerably among the group. The exhibition, as a whole, reveals an enthusiastic interest and an honesty towards the medium used - mainly oil on masonite. It is a show well worth exhibiting throughout the province and one to arouse discussion groups.

Hanging space - 51 running feet, with 2 feet between paintings.

The general trend throughout the exhibition is towards the naturalistic treatment of the subject, which, in this case, is landscape painting. A very earnest attempt has been made to experience the medium of oil and, in general, the results are personal and expressive.

A few abstracts bring their color and design into the show and add a certain amount of vitality. These have been well attempted and present a direct contrast to the other works submitted.

It is a show representative of what is being done by the part-time painter, working mainly on his own and for the pleasure he derives from it.

Hanging space - approximately 35 feet, with 18 - 24 inches between pictures.

The paintings included in this group, thirteen in all, present a varied approach to the experience of working in oil. An enthusiasm of experimentation is evident. Color plays an important part in this experimentation and in the over-all presentation of the show. Each piece remains a relatively personal experience with something for all viewers.

Approach to technique varies considerably. The general composition or design of each offers the amateur a good insight into the simplicity of these elements.

The works included in this group would particularly be of great interest to other amateur painters and to groups who have not yet had exhibitions. The layman would find it a show easily acceptable.

Hanging space - 50 running feet, with 18 inches between paintings.

ALBERTA COLLEGE OF ART
ALBERTA COLLEGE OF ART

The following six exhibitions are presented by students from the Alberta College of Art, Calgary, formerly known as the "Art Department", Provincial Institute of Technology and Art.

A large number of excellent students are enrolled each year. The exhibitions presented carry through various phases of student training over a four-year period.

Classes in drawing, graphics, design, perspective, history of art, commercial lay-out and drawing, watercolor, illustration, mural, crafts, etc., result in excellent exhibition material. Endless variety in approaches make the material value of the show of general interest to schools and art students in general.

This exhibition of various phases in life drawing is a direct exhibition, giving the viewer an excellent insight into the liberties that the artist is able to use to portray successfully the human form, the use of distortion and linear emphasis.

Volume studies readily adapt to the use of conte and charcoal, as well as ink washes.

Line becomes extremely sensitive and alive, giving vitality to the figure.

The show is highly recommended to centres and organizations directly interested in art and painting, as well as those new to the arts field.

It is an excellent exhibit for art club discussion groups.

Hanging space - 61 running feet, with 2 feet between matts.

The works included in this group would particularly be of great interest to those artists and to groups who have not yet had exhibitions. The show would find a show easily acceptable.

This is a collection of elementary design problems from border designs to over-all composition. In each case these are very good examples of how design is derived from an idea and developed to a pleasing, harmonious balance of area, texture, line and color relationship. All the elements of design come into play. Excellent positive and negative areas result in successful studies.

This is a particularly fine exhibit for those centres and organizations entering into design courses, both in the painting and crafts field. Close study of the exercises should prove enlightening to those in the preliminary phases of art and design.

The field of graphics is often overlooked by the amateur artist, yet it is a direct and free medium of expression. The group of nineteen prints covers a wide field of media used by the graphic artist.

Line painting, a rewarding and simple means of reproducing a work of art, is one of the main entries in the show. This medium has been handled in dynamic area relationship by the artists, with the addition of color to add a sparkle to the show.

This exhibition is highly recommended. The choice of techniques and subjects, both abstract and realistic, makes it a show to arouse interest in the medium for all groups and persons interested in the Fine Arts, as well as a viewing pleasure.

Hanging space - approximately 59 running feet, with 18 inches between prints.

The eleven matts in this exhibition consist mainly of first year student work. Each is a direct exercise involved with the theory of the complexities of the study of art.

Animal studies, mechanical perspective drawing, tone rendering, analytical pure-line construction and commercial illustration make up the greater part of the matts.

It is an exhibit where everyone viewing it can find something of interest and gives a good insight into the studies of the student. It is an exhibition recommended for schools and students of art.

The way in which the exhibition is set up makes it easy to pack and ship.

EXHIBITION NO.9

ART INSTITUTE OF ONTARIO

What Is Modern Art

14 panels

The thirteen panels of this exhibition introduce to the viewer some aspects of painting in Europe and America during the last seventy-five years.

Well-known works showing some of the most important approaches in our time are grouped together with a short text to relate what modern art is. Here we have an insight into the contemporary artist, his message to the world, the urgency in which he lives; his dedication to what he feels and believes; the poetic imagination of the artist.

The exhibition is one that is easy to display and of interest to all interested in the arts and well worth a few minutes to follow the panels through.

Hanging space - approximately 54 feet, with 10 inches between matts.

EXHIBITION NO. 10.      18th CENTURY ENGLAND

24 panels

This is a pictorial essay of 18th century England, its elegance in the artistocracy and the opposite in the life of the peasant peoples, composed and offered by the Art Gallery of Toronto of the series compiled by Life Magazine's 'The History Of Western Culture'. Famous paintings and photos of 18th century have been reproduced with a short text to complete the essay.

The caricaturist was afforded endless subjects in a time of political insecurity.

The exhibition would be of interest to schools in particular and the general public.

Hanging space - approximately 58 feet, with 10 inches between panels.

This exhibition of paintings in oil and watercolor covers both the abstract and the realistic. Excellent examples of technique are presented. A watercolor by Margaret Butuk is worthy of note. In this portrayal of a cat, the artist has explored and presented a work of masterful handling, deftly using the characteristics of watercolor to their best advantage.

The painters have all experimented with their mediums and successful results are presented. It is a very good show and should be given to all groups interested in seeing sound work and for general viewing, as well as those planning art classes.

A great deal of time and care has been taken to frame the showing and is an excellent example to offer the amateur painter regarding presentation of his works.

9.	"Still Life"	Elsie Wright
10.	"Trail, B.C."	Barbara Roe Hicklin
11.	"Rock Study"	Fay Hilker

The content of this exhibition by Edmonton painters tends towards the realistic. Colour is emphasized and each work is a very personal rendition of the subject matter. Oil and water-colour, with an intersection of other media, adds variety. The handling of each is capable and presents an exhibition to be viewed as individual works. The technical skill employed by each artist is well worthy of close scrutiny, a freedom of brush handling brings a sparkling surface texture into the overall design. Each work remains on its own and can only be termed as individual pieces.

"Heavy Snow" by Mildred Newell, while in the realm of realism, possesses an abstract quality, making it a rhythm of design. Paint texture in this painting and that of J.G. Sinclair's "In The Rapids", liven the canvas surface and emphasize the emotional quality of the work.

The experienced viewer and painting enthusiast can gain much from the vitality and variety the exhibition offers. It is a show to stimulate the painter and promote group discussion and is recommended to clubs or organizations who have viewed exhibitions in the past.

Hanging space, approximately 50 ft., with 2 ft. between frames.

10. Still Life	Fort Saskatchewan	E.M. Handford
11. "Idaho Hills"	Fort Saskatchewan	D.J. Smith
12. Scape	Marshall, Sask.	S. Jeffery

This exhibition is made up of twelve paintings from the Fort Saskatchewan and Lloydminster Art Clubs.

The subject matter varies from animal to landscapes. The abstracts presented, though few in number, are dominant among the otherwise naturalistic show. All paintings are by amateurs who paint for pleasure and in their spare time. In most instances emphasis is on subject matter rather than techniques and texture.

This is a good exhibition for the layman audience because of the variety of subject matter, as well as a show for newly formed groups of amateur painters.

Hanging space: - 45 feet, with 2 feet between paintings.

The exhibition has a certain vitality in colour and in the treatment of the canvas surface. Design in general has made a number of the paintings very personal experiences to the painters concerned and has brought works to an emotional level of expression. It is a good example of what is being done by those who have struggled, or are struggling, with the constructive elements of design.

The subject matter, abstract and naturalistic, varies widely, making the show of interest to both the art club painter and the layman, particularly in those areas which have had shows in the past. The rendering is in oils and tempora.

The show is well presented in that all works are matted, glazed and framed. Size remains consistent in all the paintings submitted and makes it, therefore, easy to handle.

We would recommend this exhibition chiefly to those communities and centres interested in painting and in watercolors in particular and to those who have experienced exhibitions in the past.

Mr. Foedisch has turned out a large number of paintings and this exhibition is representative of the familiarity he has with the medium of oils. His method is direct and the handling of his brush incorporates a vivid liveliness to the canvas surface. Emphasis on color furthers the viewer's pleasure.

In each of his works a particular mood is captured through his vigorous handling of the medium. The subject matter is varied and falls well into this artist's techniques.

The exhibition will be a delight to other landscape artists and those who appreciate the free movement of the artist's brush.

The show is recommended to any club, school or organization who is interested in the field of painting. The exhibition is an easy viewing experience and should prove receptive to all interested in oils.

Hanging space - approx. 60 running feet, with 2 feet between paintings.
